F. D. R. ORDERS NAVY HEAD TO HAVANA, CUBA

Concentration of Atlantic Warships Comes After Reports of Violence.

MARINES READY TO ACT

President Announces Intervention To Be Last Step: To Protect Lives.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—President Roosevelt today ordered Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson to proceed directly to Havana, Cuba, and at the same time ordered a concentration of the warships in the Atlantic waters around Cuba.

Secretary Swanson will go to Cuba aboard the cruiser Indianapolis, now at Annapolis. The concentration of warships was ordered after another canvass of dispatches on the island.

The next step, it was said at the White House is contingent upon conditions in Cuba.

Mr. Roosevelt is going to make sure that American lives are protected. It was emphatic that there will be intervention only if it is required.

Given No Orders

Swanson will sail from Annapolis at 4 o'clock today and will arrive in Havana Friday morning.

Leaving a White House conference on the Cuban situation, Swanson said he had no specific orders.

At the same time, Admiral H. Standley, chief of naval operations, flashed orders for a concentration of most of the warships in Atlantic waters around Cuba.

It was emphasized at the White House that the President is withholding intervention as the last step to be taken to restore order.

A spread of the disorders throughout the island to the far-away points of Guantanamo and Santiago is causing the precautionary measures.

The battleship Mississippi was ordered from Norfolk this morning to take a station off of Key West, Fla.

Marines Ready

Admiral Standley, reported a regiment of marines was ready at Quantico, Va., for service if necessary.

The battleships New Mexico and Wyoming are stationed at Philadelphia and Newport, R. I., respectively, but they have not been ordered to Cuba.

Asked how quickly the marines could be moved to Cuba, Admiral Standley said that depended on whether they were sent by sea or air.

He said a squadron of planes could put the marines in Cuba in six hours.

It was indicated the movement out of Quantico would be by train rather than on the slower transport Henderson.

Secretary Swanson will be accompanied only by his aide.

The state department today called in the heads of all the Latin American missions to inform them individually of the situation in Cuba as it is reported to Washington and to tell them what steps are being taken by the United States government.

Professional Men New Cuban Rulers

HAVANA, Sept. 6 — Within gunrange of an American destroyer a junta of five professional men took charge today of the second revolution-born government Cuba has had in less than a month.

This "executive commission for provisional government," named after the rank and file of Cuban defense forces had driven out President De Cespedes and his cabinet, will rule until an actual revolutionary regime is established.

Its members met this morning to outline their policies, to seek the return of order, to demand recognition of other nations of the new administration, and to formulate plans for electing a constitutional assembly.

An earlier manifesto announced the revolutionary movement, com-

BALLOON ENTRANTS STILL UNREPORTED

Van Orman and Polish Fliers Thought To Be Aloft Four Days After Start.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—The two remaining entrants in the James Gordon Bennett balloon race continued to be unheard from today four days after their take-off from Chicago and were supposedly still aloft or down in some uninhabited and desolate spot.

They are Ward Van Orman and his aid Frank A. Trotter, who took off in an American civilian bag, and Capt. Franczek Hynek, and Lieut Zbignski Burzynski in the Polish entry. A balloon reported high over Manchester, N. H., last night was believed to be one of the two, but it could not be identified.

Meanwhile, Lieut. Commander T. G. W. Settle and Lieut. Charles H. Kendall packed up their navy balloon and sent it to Lakehurst, N. J., from Bradford, Conn., and left for New York to await developments and learn if their 750-mile flight won the race.

PAY INCREASES MADE BY FORD

Move Under Way To "Go NRA One Better" in Automobile Plant.

COMPROMISE IS EXPECTED

Company Executives Still Are Silent on Plans of Manufacturer.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Sept. 6—A wage revision was in progress today at the Ford Motor Co. plant, interpreted generally as part of a plan by Henry Ford to "go the NRA one better," but from another quarter came an indication Ford and the blue eagle might eventually get together.

Directors of the Dearborn NRA unit decided that Ford, most prominent "hold-out" of the organized recovery movement, should remain as honorary chairman, and Caspar B. Hughes, the active chairman, said he had been told differences would be ironed out. Ford accepted the honorary chairmanship four weeks ago.

"We decided he should continue as before," Hughes said, "since we are convinced that Mr. Ford and the NRA organization will reach a compromise within a few days." He said company officials had told him Ford would indorse the movement.

No formal announcement of the wage revision, said by one official to be a "gradual process," has been made and none is expected at least until Ford returns late this week from his Huron mountain retreat near Big Bay, Mich. It was indicated, however, that some 10,000 of the estimated 40,000 workers have received increases from $4 to $4.80 a day.

It was explained the basic minimum wage still is $4 for an eight hour day, but, as one official put it, that is "not really a minimum, but the lowest wage we would consider paying to the most inexperienced and unskilled labor." How many men still draw the $4 rate could not even be conjectured.

Should Ford stand pat on his refusal to sign the national automobile code, now in its second day of effectiveness, he might be expected to rely upon his policy of exceeding the wage provisions of the code to offset any adverse public opinion.

The auto code specifies a 43-cents-an-hour minimum wage for the Detroit area. It also specifies a 35-hour week, while Ford employes who are on full time work five eight-hour days a week.

Ford's primary objections to the code focus on its provisions for collective bargaining by workers and inspection of at least some company records by representatives of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, administrative body of the code. Ford is not a member of the N. A. C. C.

FINAL REPORT MADE IN CONSUMERS' DRIVE

Final reports from workers in Marion's NRA consumers' campaign show at least 5,893 families are pledged to support the national recovery program by supporting dealers who are under the NRA, Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, city chairman for the drive, said this morning.

The drive ended last Saturday, but final reports were not assembled and compiled until today. She listed the number of families signed by wards as follows: First ward, 993; Second ward, 824; Third ward, 1,026; Fourth ward, 932; Fifth ward, 987; Sixth ward, 1,121

One new Marion employer had been added to the previous list of 532 Marion employers who have complied with the NRA. The new signer is Retterer Service station at 944 Mt. Vernon avenue.

NEW BIDS SAVE COUNTY $4,467 ON ROAD WORK

Contractors' Prices Show Marked Drop After Board Advertises.

GROVER SNYDER GETS JOB

Submits Proposal of $11,551 To Do Resurfacing, Maintenance Work.

County commissioners yesterday afternoon awarded a contract for their 1933 county road program to Grover C. Snyder of Marion at his bid of $11,551.72.

Mr Snyder's bid was the lowest of four submitted to the board yesterday after it had advertised for bids on the program. Other bids were: S. M. Wooley of Marion, $11,903.85; Henry P. Drake of Marion, $13,705.96; Lois Dehmer of Tiffin, $12,266.72.

Bid $4,467 Lower

The successful bid was $4,467.93 less than an "informal" bid submitted to the board by Mr. Snyder Aug. 2. Members of the board yesterday repeated that a sharp drop in the price of bituminous materials caused them to reject Mr. Snyder's "informal" bid, together with one of a like figure submitted by Mr Drake, on Aug. 5. They also said this drop in prices enabled Mr. Snyder to bid $4.467.93 less than his original bid

Both of the "informal" bids received on Aug. 2 were for $16,019.65, the exact amount estimated by Surveyor Carl H. Tozzer at the cost of the projects. The figure also was the highest at which the contract could have been let, statutes forbidding the letting of contracts for more than the estimated cost of the improvement. The commissioners repeatedly have asserted that the question of the legality of their procedure in receiving "informal" bids had no bearing on the rejection of the original bids for the work. The point involved in the question of legality was failure of the board to advertise for bids on the work before "informal" bids were received.

Roads Included

The program calls for retreading of the Whetstone river road in Richland township from state route 98, known as the Bucyrus-Waldo road, to the Firstenberger road, a distance of slightly less than two and one-half miles, and resurfacing sections of several other roads in scattered parts of the county including parts of the following: Owens-Green Camp road, Crissinger road, Richland pike, Agosta-Meeker road, Prospect-Upper Sandusky road, Goodnow road, Bexley, King and Concord avenues in Vernon Heights, Columbus and Water streets in Green Camp village, Klingle road, Benzler road, Main street in Waldo, Smeltzer pike, Guthery road, Clover avenue, Marion-Edison pike, Galion road.

Work is scheduled to begin on the improvements next week.

TAXPAYERS RUSH TO MAKE PAYMENTS

Marion county taxpayers, under the impression that it was the deadline for payment of June real estate taxes, paid a total of $46,234.16 to County Treasurer R. G. Smallwood yesterday.

This figure brought the total collection to $469,889.94, the treasurer reported.

Announcement was made yesterday by the treasurer that the state tax commission had extended the current collection period to Sept. 15.

32 Known Dead, 1,500 Injured in Hurricane

Southern Texas, Part of Mexico Suffer Heavy Damage to Property and Crops.

By The Associated Press

EDINBURG, Tex., Sept. 6 — Thirty-two dead approximately 1,500 injured and damage estimated in millions of dollars was the known toll exacted by the great tropical hurricane which devastated the beautiful and prosperous lower Rio Grande valley of Texas and Mexico Monday night and Tuesday.

Crashing in from the Gulf of Mexico at midnight the mighty storm spread death and desolation over one of the richest agricultural areas in the United States, and only the fact warnings had been broadcast a week in advance prevented much larger loss of life.

Despite the warnings, however the hurricane caught many people unable to withstand its tremendous force, and fears were expressed the death list would grow as crippled communications made it impossible to gather the complete story of the catastrophe.

There were 20 known dead in Brownsville and vicinity, 10 in Harlingen and two in Rio Hondo. Six of the dead in the Brownsville area were accounted for in Matamoros, Tamaulipas, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from Brownsville.

Many Others Feared Dead

When the storm snatched additional lives from the many small towns and villages and agricultural sections, as it raked a path of terror from the mouth of the giant river toward the west, moving into Mexico, was not known immediately.

Calls for relief and even for institution of martial law went out from some of the stricken communities, and Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, as well as federal authorities, moved quickly to bring them succor.

At least five relief trains hastily were equipped to battle disease and allay thirst and hunger, threatened by the temporary destruction of power plants, and food reserves and were rushed into the storm country.

Red Cross experts in relief measures took with them physicians, nurses, relief workers, food, water, medical supplies and clothing

While the stricken thousands in the valley bote up bravely, despite the fact all the possessions of many, including their homes, had been swept away, a new threat appeared in the form of a possible flood as a result of torrential rains which accompanied the hurricane.

Towns Under Water

Much of Brownsville, Harlingen San Benito and other towns and the territory adjacent was under water for many hours after the storm had begun to subside, and some feared the deluge might be

Two Held as Suspects in Old Burglary

Search for Stolen Pocketbook Uncovers Loot in Second Theft.

Two Marion men were to be arraigned in municipal court this afternoon on larceny charges growing out of a burglary about 18 months ago of the C. A. Owens residence at Owens Station, about five miles south of Marion.

What police say is the solution of the year-and-a half old burglary resulted from a search of the Clyde Warner residence at 802 Bennett street for a woman's pocketbook reported stolen from the C. R. Young residence on Sharp street.

During the search, police noticed cut glassware and silverware resembling that stolen from the Owens residence, they reported. Investigation resulted in the arrest of Clyde Warner, 28, and Joe Drake, 26, of 832 North Main street. Additional loot, police said, was located at the Drake residence.

Both men are said by police to have confessed the burglary. The house was found open, the suspects told authorities, adding that they merely walked in and picked up whatever they wanted. The house has not been occupied for some time.

The recovered loot includes expensive cut glass pitchers, vases and trays, silver platters, a thermos jug and miscellaneous articles. Many of the articles were gifts.

Whether additional articles were stolen and disposed of cannot be determined, police said, since it is not known how much was stolen from the Owens home. Mrs. Mabel C. Owens, however, has identified the articles thus far recovered.

Theft of the pocketbook, search for which led to Warner's arrest, also caused the arrest of his wife, Mrs. Edna Warner. She is now awaiting hearing Friday at 3 p. m. in municipal court on a grand larceny charge, accused of stealing the pocketbook while visiting at Young's residence. Young said the pocketbook contained $165.

GRAND JURY REPORT EXPECTED ON FRIDAY

The September term grand jury this morning swung into the second day of its session with the hope of finishing a schedule of 15 cases by Thursday afternoon

Prosecutor R. M. Wilhelm said the jury's report probably will be submitted to Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield Friday, provided that date is agreeable to the court.

Five cases were considered yesterday, and eight more were scheduled for today's session.

Four Dead in Ohio from Dread Sleeping Sickness

State Moves To Halt Possible Spread as Five Other Cases Are Reported.

By The Associated Press

Four deaths in Ohio in less than two weeks from encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, five officially listed cases and several others unofficially reported in widely separated locations led the state health department to take steps today against a possible spread of the disease.

Dr. H. G. Southard, head of the department, named Dr. Finley Van Orsdall, chief of the communicable disease division, to conduct research to develop measures for preventing its spread, and for methods of treating present cases.

Hugh Shuttleworth, 53, a druggist, died of encephalitis, physicians said, at New Straitsville yesterday, after an illness of three weeks. Dr. Harold J. Knapp, city health commissioner at Cleveland, said two persons have died there of sleeping sickness since Sept. 1. Marcella Barbar, 21-months-old Negro died at Cincinnati Aug. 29.

The state health department listed two cases in Cleveland and one each in Painesville, Cleveland Heights and Unity, in Columbiana county.

Dr. Knapp, however, said that in Cleveland five new cases had been reported to him since Sept. 1, and the Cleveland health department last night said a sixth new case had been discovered in the city.

Another case not listed by the state health department was at St. Clairsville, where Margaret Sakas, 19, became ill Monday. Physicians said hers was the first case in eastern Ohio.

Other sufferers from sleeping sickness are Louis Perry, 34, at Toledo, and Mary Smith, 22-months-old Negro, at Cincinnati.

INSANE CRIMINALS ESCAPE; ONE KILLED

Other Three Captured After Being Overcome by Tear Gas.

By The Associated Press

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., Sept 6 — One inmate of the state hospital for the criminally insane was shot to death by a state trooper and two others were overcome by tear gas when officers forced their way into a small room where four crazed men had barricaded themselves during an attempted escape early today.

Ray Fisher, 26, of Buffalo, leader of the attempted break, was killed by Trooper Robert Galvin. Fisher had leveled a 22 caliber revolver at Galvi when the latter crashed through the door.

The trooper, his gun already drawn fired a bullet through the young desperado's heart. Two of the remaining three were sprawled on the floor where they had fallen, overcome by an enormous amount of tear gas fired into the room. The other was found unharmed in a wash room nearby.

The man had struck a guard down with a chair shortly after 1 a. m. and made a dash from the large ward where they were kept with 64 other patients.

Meanwhile, the inmates in the ward had gone on a rampage, smashing furniture and windows in the room where they were held with two guards. They completely wrecked the room, but did not molest the guards. By daylight all the inmates were quieted.

CIRCUS WILL ARRIVE LATER THAN USUAL

City Awaits Coming of Big Hagenbeck-Wallace Show Thursday.

Little boys, and their fathers, too, who want to watch the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus unload here Thursday morning probably won't have to get up as early as in former years.

An advance man of the circus, in a conversation with city officials this morning, remarked that the show will not arrive here "very early." He also said there will be no parade here.

He explained that the long jump from Anderson, Ind., where the circus plays tonight, will delay the arrival here. He could not set the exact hour of arrival but it is expected to be considerably later than the usual daybreak unloading.

The show will unload at the Greenwood street railroad crossing. On leaving Marion, it will load on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks along the Garden City pike.

HINT ARRESTS MAY FOLLOW AS PROBE STARTS

Wooden Coach Telescoped as Locomotive Ploughs Into Train from Rear.

ALL DEAD IN SAME CAR

R. E. Woodruff Takes Charge of Investigation; Issues Statement.

By The Associated Press

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. Sept 6— Arrests may follow the wreck here last night of the Erie railroad crack flyer, Atlantic express number 8, in which 14 were killed and nearly 100 injured, 25 of whom were in hospitals today, officials indicated today. The number or the names they declined, however, to divulge.

Meanwhile, Coroner Frank J. Hitchcock and Captain Michael J. Hanifin of the city police began to bring in for questioning the members of the crew of the freight engine whose switching operations forced the passenger train to halt just before it was struck by a fast milk train at the city limits.

"No blame will be placed anywhere or upon anyone until the inquest," the coroner said after a long conference with District Attorney Frank L. Wooster, Captain Hanifin, Lieut Otto Krause of the detective bureau and Lieut. J. Earl Duryea of the Erie police force.

District Attorney's Statement

The district attorney said

"We have talked to several of the interested railroad men and so far we have uncovered nothing that I care to make public. I am not prepared to say whether there is or is not indication that the engineer of the milk train saw any signals to proceed with caution. It is my understanding that the signal system is automatic, but whether it was working or not I have no way of finding out yet.

Meanwhile a canvass of the scene of the wreck, the Erie railroad office and the county, police and troopers headquarters failed to locate J. W. Graves of Hornell, division superintendent of the railroad. At the railroad offices, in the absence of Mr. Graves, it was said that "no one here has authority to talk."

One representative of the interstate commerce commission, Joseph Bromley of Binghamton arrived this morning from Syracuse where he had been on official business and then immediately was ordered into Pennsylvania for an investigation there. Word was received here, however, that another interstate commerce commission investigator had been directed to come here from Washington, and a fellow in-

Former Marion Man Heads Wreck Probe

A former Marion man today was heading an investigation of the crash of a fast Erie passenger train with a milk train near Binghamton, N. Y., last night.

Robert E. Woodruff of Cleveland, vice president in charge of operations of the Erie railroad, immediately took charge of an investigation when he learned of the wreck, news dispatches stated. He ordered a thorough inquiry regarding the cause.

Mr. Woodruff for several years lived in Marion while division superintendent for the railroad here.

The fast train which figured in the crash near Binghamton left Marion, eastbound, yesterday at 5:02 a. m. after arriving here at 4:53. The entire crew was changed at Salamanca, and so far as could be learned, there were no Marion residents on the train, either as passengers or members of the crew, on its run from here to Salamanca.

The train stops here regularly, dropping mail, but seldom picked up passengers because it passes through Marion at such an early hour, trainmen said

CHIEF UPHELD IN WREN CASE

Permanent Dismissal of Policeman Ordered by Safety Director Murphy.

CHARGED WITH NEGLECT

Ousted Patrolman Has 10 Days in Which To File Court Appeal.

Dismissal of Patrolman John Wren from the Marion police department was ordered last night by Safety Director Emery M. Murphy.

Notice of his ruling was contained in a registered letter sent last night to Wren and in communications to Chief William E. Marks and the city civil service commission.

Director Murphy's letter to Wren, in part, follows: "I have this day, after a complete and thorough investigation of the facts justifying such action by myself as safety director of the city of Marion, dismissed you from the police department.

Neglect Charged

"The cause for such dismissal is gross neglect of duty as a police officer and while on duty as such."

Wren was temporarily suspended last Thursday afternoon by Chief Marks and Director Murphy's ruling sustains the chief's action.

Wren was seen off his beat Thursday afternoon and had frequently offended in that manner in the past, police department officials said.

Whether Wren will appeal the dismissal, as he is entitled to do, remained a question today. He could not be reached at his home and members of the civil service commission had no information, they said, on his intentions.

Commission officers said a period of 10 days is provided by law in which Wren may make an appeal.

Director Murphy, in his letter to Chief Marks, states, "I regret very much that it was necessary to dismiss Mr. Wren from the department but from the facts as they came to me from my investigation of the conduct and actions of Mr. Wren, my judgment could not be otherwise than that of complete dismissal from the police department."

Wren ranked second among the city patrolmen in length of service, having completed his seventeenth year on July 22.

No decisions have been made about replacing him or about giving examinations for the post and probably will not be made for some time, Chief Marks said.

VERMONT FALLS IN LINE FOR REPEAL

New England State Becomes Twenty-Fifth To Vote Wet.

By The Associated Press.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 6—Vermont was on record today as the twenty-fifth successive state to vote for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

A light vote was cast yesterday by citizens of the Green mountain state, long a stronghold of prohibition forces, and by midnight the complete vote from the 248 towns and cities was:

For repeal 41,279; against 20,572.

A ticket of 14 delegates, representing each of the 14 counties will meet at Montpelier to ratify the Twenty-first amendment by which the Eighteenth would be repealed.

Woodruff Issues Statement

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 6 — Vice President R. E. Woodruff of the Erie railroad, said the engineer of the milk train which ploughed last night into a waiting passenger flyer near Binghamton, N. Y., was aware that he did not have a clear track.

Woodruff, who is in charge of Erie operations, made the statement today after a preliminary investigation of the accident.

The statement of the Erie vice president appeared to contradict quoted informal statements by Engineer M. H. King of Elmira, N. Y., that he "didn't see the signal light in time to stop."

"Investigation discloses," Woodruff said, "that the milk train had stopped behind the passenger train at Binghampton station, and after departing that point had passed two signals indicating trains ahead. Both these signals are in automatic train control territory and are so equipped that the engineer, before passing, has to acknowledge them which indicates that he was aware that the track ahead was not clear."

He took his work for the master degree while teaching American government at the Minnesota university, the year following his graduation from Ohio Wesleyan university in 1931 with a bachelor of arts degree. This summer he completed the work on his thesis, "The licensing of industrial and medicinal alcohol under national prohibition acts" and two weeks ago took the examination required for a master's degree. The thesis is a study of licenses by which alcohol has been regulated since prohibition.

Mr. Rinnert, with an average of 74, was among the second 16 in the law school last year. The average is the equivalent of four A's and one B plus for the year's work. Those students with an average of 75 publish the school law magazine and the second 16 become members of the aid bureau which has been established in Boston to take care of cases for those unable to afford a lawyer. Harvard university is one of several large universities in the country which maintain a bureau of this kind.

Mr. Rinnert will be graduated from the Harvard law school in 1935. He was graduated from Harding High school in the class of '27. He is the son of Henry S. Rinnert of 211 Reed avenue.

A full-tuition scholarship of $400 at Harward was awarded Mr. Rinnert in reward for his superior scholastic standing. The scholarship, awarded by the faculty, is open to students with a scholastic record above 70 who meet other requirements set by the faculty.

EXAMINER ANSWERS STAMP TAX QUESTION

Bucyrus Man Here To Aid Marion Merchants With Problems.

Numerous questions concerning the new Ohio beverage tax law and the cosmetic tax law have been answered for C. H. Fry of Bucyrus, examiner for the state tax commission this week in a series of visits to Marion retailers handling taxable merchandise.

The beverage tax Mr. Fry explained amounts to one-half cent for each six ounces on beverages selling for more than five cents. All beverages sealed with crowns or caps are taxable, including ginger ales, pops, soda waters charged or still waters, tomato juice fermented fruit juices and imitations, cereal beverages and non-ale brewers, vermouth, bourbon or gin.

All beverages in a place of business must have cancelled stamps on them, Mr. Fry said.

Retailers holding beer dispensers' licenses will not be required to obtain a beverage distributor's license, Mr. Fry said. Those, however, who do not have beer licenses are required to obtain a $1 license from the county auditor, he said.

New rulings regarding the cosmetic tax law were explained by Mr. Fry. Cosmetic retailers he said, may withhold stamping cosmetics until the time of sale, whereas they formerly were required to stamp all cosmetics on display for sale. All shaving preparations are taxable under an amendment to the cosmetics law, whereas creams and soaps were first held to be exempted, he said.

Don't Worry

(Will Rogers' Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 6—See some of the papers are kinder excited over "What will Henry Ford Do?" Well, that's the last thing we got to worry about nowadays. He will do better on labor than anybody else so that's good enough.

There is only one drawback to being in September. Women with charge accounts, and sending stuff on approval very will do a lot of September buying but I bet help October when they start to returning the clothes because they didn't look good at the party.

They say there is a hurricane down in Texas and Florida. Think I saw a little squib about it in some California paper.

ELECTION IS HELD BY JUNIOR LEAGUE

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA, Sept. 6—A meeting of the Junior league of Memorial M. E. church was held Sunday evening at the church after a three weeks' recess. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. S. P. Robertson. Election of officers resulted as follows: President, Kenneth Jones; first vice president, Helen Coulter; second vice president, Ruth Snyder; secretary, Florence Lyon; assistant secretary, Erma Jones; treasurer, Robert Kelly; assistant treasurer, Earl Jones. Committee named were: Program, Mercedes Hoffman, Reta Grace, Caldwell, Evelyn Hoffman; flower, Thelma Racey, Mildred Arnold; social, Donald Garber, George Hickson, James Hickson, work, Jack Timson, Frank Tratchler and Jean Mills.

CONDITION POOR

The condition of Mrs. Joe Ridgeway of Richwood was described as "poor" this morning by City hospital attaches. Mrs. Ridgeway is gradually growing weaker, suffering from a paralysis of the lower part of her body, caused by a bullet lodged against her spine. The bullet was fired from a gun held by her husband on July 10 at Richwood.

17 from Marion County Quit Reforestation Army

Of 433 Ohio recruits who have dropped out of the citizen's conservation crops 17 were from Marion county, according to an Associated Press survey today. A total of 5,201 are still enrolled in the camps in the state.

While the thinning of the reforestation ranks was attributed in many cases to the finding of jobs, school and wanderlust, the discharges of the Marion county youths were owing to physical disabilities in two cases and others for having been absent without leave or "generally unsatisfactory" qualifications.

Those still in the camps from Marion county are enthusiastic over the outdoors life and desire to re-enlist if given the opportunity. Dr. N. Siffrin, county health officer who was in charge of their enlistment, said.

A total of 95 recruits were sent from this county. Of those dismissed, 15 were Marion city residents and only two from the rural districts, county records show.

Similar reports of enrollees dropping out came from other Ohio cities; of 650 sent in June from Columbus, 165 have quit and at least 10 per cent of the 2,250 recruits from Greater Cleveland are thought to have dropped out.

The discharged recruits from this county are thought to be back at home with their families, county officials said instead of "hitting the road" or finding jobs. The families are now back on the city relief lists, officials said, from which they were removed when the revenue from the recruit's pay started coming in.

Hagenbeck-Wallace To Show Here Tomorrow

PRINCESS MU KAUN

Arrival of Circus, With 29 Elephants and Numerous Other Attractions, Scheduled at Greenwood Street Thursday Morning, Performances at 2 and 8 P. M.

The heaviest drinkers in America are coming to Marion tomorrow.

They are the elephants—29 of 'em—with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which will unload its silver and scarlet railroad cavalcade on the Big Four tracks at Greenwood street Thursday morning.

By noon, a community of 20 separate tents will be erected on the show grounds at Fairground and Greenwood streets. Performances will take place at 2 and 8 p. m. with doors open one hour earlier to permit a leisurely inspection of the world's animal menagerie, largest on tour this year.

Princess Special Attraction

Features for 1933 include Princess Mu Kaun, giraffe-neck woman from Upper Burma, where the aristocratic ladies of the Padaung tribe elongate their necks to a length of 14 inches by a series of brass rings superimposed from infancy. Her husband, Maung Da, accompanies her and they will be on exhibition in the main performances. Mu Kaun's neck has been stretched to a length of 14 inches and the rings weigh approximately 20 pounds. They never are removed except at secret tribal ceremonies at which no white person ever has been permitted to witness.

The Burmese princess has developed a craving for sweets since joining the big show and is pictured above about to start a piece of cake on its long trip down the "giraffe" neck. Mu Kaun and Maung Da occupy a private car in the Hagenbeck-Wallace railroad cavalcade.

Numerous Star Acts

Other special features include: Clyde Beatty battling 40 lions and tigers in the big steel arena; Bombayo, Hindu acrobatic marvel in double backward somersaults on the bounding Indian rope; the famous original Hanneford family of bareback riders, featuring "Poodles," renowned riding comedian; "Cheerful" Gardiner with five herds of performing elephants; scores of high-school horses doing post-graduate work under the direction of "Rudy" Rudynoff; a regiment of clowns; the Clarkonians and the Flying Hills, aerialists; Miss Agnes Doss and Miss Esma Wilson, trapeze stars and a colorful new opening spectacle, "The Soudan."

The circus is coming to Marion from Anderson, Ind. and from here will go to Chillicothe, O., Clyde Beatty's home town.

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—How can I pack the school lunch?

Answer—Oiled paper is inexpensive and very excellent for wrapping sandwiches, fresh vegetables such as celery, carrot strips, cabbage strips, fruits, tomatoes, cookies, cakes, etc. It keeps foods moist and fresh and prevents exchange of food flavors.

Paper napkins should be included for wiping soiled fingers. There should also be a napkin, a small towel or a square of white oilcloth to place on the desk or table to be used as a tablecloth when the lunch is set out.

A small jar with tight fitting cover is needed for fruits, tomato juice or other drinks. Small wax paper boxes may be used. A small thermos bottle is excellent for keeping hot drinks hot or cold drinks cold.

If the thin lunch box is used it should have small holes for ventilation and should be washed, scalded and aired each evening.

A drinking cup, knife, fork and spoon should be provided for each boy and girl.

The lunch should be packed so that foods to be eaten first are on the top.

Remember when your child was this age ?

REMEMBER how carefully you watched him—how you took care of every little thing that you didn't think quite right?

As he grew older you might have become a little less attentive, because as the years went on he became more able to care for himself. But there's one thing that you should never stop watching—your child's eyes. Eye health is essential to mental growth, and his future happiness is entirely dependent upon his ability to see perfectly. A guess as to whether his eyes are right is not sufficient—only a thorough examination will tell their true condition.

and came unbidden, but why subject himself to this mental torment? It was useless, purposeless—even if it was human to do so. He had chosen his course deliberately; there had seemed to be no other way, and, whatever happened tonight, he must perforce go through with it—to the end.

He drove his mind afield. More had been said about Lazrare and the "members" of the club who had taken flight on the night of Dollaire's attack. They were still in hiding, still under cover, and New York knew them not. The identification of Kenniston, their true millionaire leader, had been awkward—Kenniston's life was still being subjected to a searching investigation, as were the lives of all those who, so far as the police could discover, had ever been associated with him.

And since the uttering of counterfeit money was a matter that automatically involved the federal authorities, the Secret Service was in the forefront of the picture. Lazarre's name had not actually been mentioned, but through inference, a reference to the man who had got a "hide full of lead," it was apparent that Lazarre had entirely recovered, and like the others, was still in hiding.

Colin smiled queerly. So, after all, he had saved Lazarre's life. He was glad in a purely humanitarian sense that his efforts had not been in vain; but in a material sense it mattered little now whether Lazarre was dead or alive. Instead of Lazarre there was now Buck O'Mara.

PROBABLY from the start, Lazarre, even if Lazarre had been willing, could have helped but little. He rated Lazarre as being perhaps of the same status and on the same plane amongst the Mask's tools as Benny Malone—quite a different status from that of Buck O'Mara or Heimie Schwarm.

And yet Reddy's letter, though still undelivered, had proved to be by a strange twist of fate the "open sesame" to the Mask's operating headquarters at the Wine Press, and to whatever measure of Buck O'Mara's confidence he already possessed. If it had not been for that letter he would never have gone to Cap a l'Orage; if he had not gone to Cap a l'Orage he would never have heard of Dollaire.

And, if he had never heard of Dollaire, he would not have gone to Spinelli's last night; and—— The trail led on, blazed by that letter, to where he stood at this moment, an initiate into one of the Mask's mobs. Nevertheless, though it had now outlived its usefulness so far as he was concerned, he wondered, as he always had, what was in that letter.

Some day perhaps he would meet Lazarre again and deliver the letter—and perhaps not. And perhaps Lazarre would explain the nature of his liaison with Reddy—and perhaps not. It mattered little now, Lazarre was no longer needed, and could no longer be of any help.

Again his mental scene shifted. Buck O'Mara and Benny Malone had talked about Spinelli, Spinelli was on the payroll, too. Detective Sergeant Mulvey might prove to be altogether too curious as to the way in which Harry the Lynx had left the night club whose obvious exits might well have been closely guarded—to say nothing of the fact that the lights had so fortuitously gone out almost instantly at the sound of those shots!

The subject had been introduced casually, dismissed casually. A possibility, that was all. No S O S had come from Spinelli, so everything was apparently jake so far. Why worry about it? Spinelli would be given "protection" if necessary. Colin cupped his hands over a match and lighted a cigaret. A side issue that concerned him little—no bearing on the main issue.

He stepped out from behind the wheelhouse and moved over to the boat's rail. Someone was leaving the wheelhouse. Benny Malone. Buck O'Mara was still in there with Smudge Kilrea at the wheel.

"Oh, hello, Clarkie!" said Benny Malone as he stepped over to Colin's side. "I was just going to hunt you up. Buck wants a couple of us to go aboard with him and have a little social visit with Dollaire before the boys get busy—get the idea?—so's the Dollaire won't turn his toes up without knowing what it's all about. That would be just too bad! I said I'd pick you to help play the hand, seeing that you didn't miss any tricks last night, and Buck said that was okay by him."

"Sure!" agreed Colin enthusiastically.

"You just look innocent," cautioned Benny Malone, "until Buck gives us the high sign to flash our rods. Dollaire's schooner ain't showing any lights, but Smudge has just picked her up out there. We'll be a-topside in a few minutes. You just hang around here and then trail along with Buck and me. Understand?"

"Sure," said Colin enthusiastically again. "Thanks a lot, Benny, for a ringside seat."

OUT of the darkness Benny Malone's features grinned in friendly fashion.

It was coming on you, Clarkie," he said. "You made good. Now I got to check up with the boys down in the cabin and hear 'em recite their lessons the way Buck doped it out for them. I won't be long."

He moved away, heading aft at a half-run.

Colin swallowed hard. Bad as it had looked before—this was worse. Dollaire's executioner. On execution-terror with Benny Malone.

He stared out into the blackness ahead. Something out there was taking shape. He felt the boat's speed slacken, the vibration cease as the engine was shut off. A hail came across the water. Buck O'Mara stepped out of the wheelhouse and answered it, using his hands as a megaphone.

"That you, Dollaire?" he hailed. "This is Heimie Schwarm's outfit."

"Sure it's me, by crikes," the voice answered. "Come alongside. The Good Lord could not have given us a better night, eh?"

Attaboy," Buck O'Mara called back heartily.

The boats manoeuvred, bumped against the schooner's hull and were made fast. Colin brushed his hand across his eyes. His mental processes burned his vision. It was all strangely indistinct and yet it was horribly real.

He found himself mounting a short rope ladder on the heels of Buck O'Mara and Benny Malone. There were no lights showing anywhere, but his eyes grown accustomed to the darkness, he could see as he reached the deck a dozen or more forms leaning over the schooner's rail, while a chatter of voices as bantered greetings were exchanged between the crew on the deck and the boats below, resounding discordantly in his ears.

Boats always seemed to take him to slaughter, Colin thought with a grimace as he carefully placed his feet on the rounds of the swinging ladder. There had been the night when Germaine's boat had taken him to the "club" on the St. Lawrence and when he had to see men shot down while he was helplessly tied to a tree.

Then the slaughterers were Dollaire's men. Tonight in a boat belonging to the man who had threatened him with death, Colin was to see Dollaire's men shot to bits in equally cruel fashion.

For Thursday, Sept. 7

THE LUNAR transits as well as mutual aspects bearing rule on the affairs of this day point to changes, commotion or disturbance of rather intriguing effect on both business and private affairs. The sudden precipitation of events call for unusual discretion, sound consideration and real sagacity in management, so that harrowing entanglements may not arise. The mind may be inclined to secrecy or subtlety, with scheming and conniving reacting unfavorably on all affiliations. Beware queer complications or sensational personal activities or rash romances.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a surprising year with the tendencies toward crafty, shrewd or subtle manipulation of the affairs, twisting things into avenues of the sensational, romantic or dangerous in both business and private contacts, the latter especially may develop peculiar or regrettable complications. In all affairs be discreet, shun secret ways and alliances.

A child born on this day may be talented, romantic, artistic and fond of change with trends toward the exotic or singular.

RELIEF FUNDS NOT FOR SCHOOL BOOKS

Purchase of text books for school children from federal or state relief funds is not permissible, the state relief commission has ruled, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus.

Local relief officials said purchase of school books has never been contemplated as a part of the local relief program. The necessary clothing and shoes, however, have been provided right along, they said. This latter provision has the approval of the state commission the dispatch said.

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lee Chow's "Important" Conversation Turns to Hugh Grantland's Hopeless Love for Madge.

THERE WAS a certain hint of complacence in Lee Chow's manner as he stepped aside for me to lead the way back into my little study, which convinced me that at last he believed himself to be secure from intrusion while he talked to me.

Evidently he had not "swallowed whole" my story of my father's meticulous care of me, and had wished to secure himself against a possible "listening in." But patently he believed that his bolting of the library door would effectually keep my father from a possible visit to that room, and was congratulating himself accordingly.

Here I permitted myself a little private jubilation. Lee Chow did not know, as my father and I did, of a catch lock upon one of the balcony window screens, apparently tightly nailed down, enabling anyone familiar with it to enter the room from the porch outside. The young people fixed it up one summer for use in one of their trailing games, and we have never bothered to change it. By this means my father could enter the library, slip back the bolt and have the entire run of the room and hall, quite unsuspected.

To Talk of Hugh

It was this knowledge which enabled me to walk with a steady step ahead of Lee Chow, and to seat myself with apparent nonchalance in the chair he pulled out for me, opposite the one he took himself a second later. It helped me also to compose my face into a mask as the Chinese, whom for years I had liked and respected, began the conversation he had requested of me with the pertinent query.

"Why did you not go with Hugh to the beach today?"

Instinctively I parried.

"He did not ask me to go, for one thing," I said.

He made a little guttural sound of disgust.

"That is because you gave him no encouragement," he said, "and that yellow-haired devil gave him no chance to do anything but accept her offer after the first opportunity to ask you had vanished. I was waiting to give him the signal to speak to you when you told me you would not go."

Something in this pigmarole rang false, and I did not need any reflection to determine what it was. Never would Hugh Grantland discuss me or his feeling for me with anybody. Nor would he make his invitations to me dependent upon signals from anyone else, even a person so close to him as Lee Chow.

But I could not say this to the man across from me, watching me so unwinkingly from his beady black eyes. My cue was feminine unsophistication and credulity, and I proceeded to act that role.

"I am so sorry," I said. "I should not like to offend Hugh. He has been so good to all of us—such a staunch friend. But you see, don't you that if I did not go with my husband I could not go with anyone else?"

He stared at me with unwinking eyes for a long half minute.

"Yet your husband took another woman to the beach," he said slowly, at last.

I hope he did not see me wince at the crass little speech.

"Yes, he did," I answered slowly, "but really it was a situation forced upon him, a situation which—may I speak plainly?—would only be made infinitely worse by my accepting a similar invitation from Major Grantland."

"That," said Lee Chow sententiously, "is because you are not jealous of Miss Fairfax, while your husband is intensely jealous of my friend."

I stared at him a bit wildly. He had voiced the thought which I had scrupulously kept from uttering. Then I softened. This "conversation" he had requested was taking an inflammable turn.

"I am sure," I said coldly, "that you do not realize how distasteful this conversation is to me, or how impossible it is that I continue it. I thought you had something important to discuss with me. If so, I am willing to hear it. But I tell you now that I will not discuss my husband's emotions—or Major Grantland's—or mine—any further."

A sardonic gleam showed far back in the depths of his black eyes.

"That is a very pretty sentiment," he said, "and most creditable to you. Yet I believe I can show you reasons why it would be to your interest, and what is more to your husband's—for you to continue this discussion with me."

How Much More?

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and a member of the NRA labor advisory board, does not believe industrial codes go far enough in reduction of working hours. To place any great proportion of the unemployed back to their jobs, he reasons, it will be necessary to call for even shorter weeks. Since last March 2,000,000 men have gone back to work, but there still are about 11,000,000 idle.

From the statement it is gathered that Mr. Green sees an even shorter work week as an immediate necessity, despite the fact that codes already are in effect. It is not clear how he intends to go about realizing his purpose, unless dependence is to be placed on the developing strength of labor unions. Obviously, if labor is to bargain for shorter hours it will mean a long period of strife.

It appears somewhat as if in his zeal to keep on top of the situation Mr. Green may have traveled far into the unexplored territory of unreality. Apparently, it is his belief that the tangle can be straightened out with one great jerk. At least any proposal to shorten further the hours of labor after employers have made concessions of a nature radical to most of them seems to anticipate utopian conditions a bit prematurely.

Progress in such matters is not made by jerks, but by long, steady pulls. The nearest thing to a jerk labor has seen in the response to NRA, which has done more to improve the station of labor in two months than was accomplished in two decades when rugged individualism still reigned supreme as a business policy. To be sure, it is not the function of a labor spokesman ever to acknowledge that he and his constituents are satisfied, but there are times to acknowledge that progress has been made.

There will be, eventually, a week shorter than the newly fledged 40-hour ideal. There is slight chance, however, that it will come to pass while employers and laborers are gasping over a conception which would have been laughed into oblivion when labor was satisfied with eight hours a day and six days a week.

Social Discipline.

It is natural and becoming that a people engaged in cooperative effort should overlook to a large extent the significance of their own discipline. Yet, it is permissible to think of that discipline with gratitude, because it seems to promise so many good effects for a people apparently destined to call on it many times in the near future of their civilization.

Up to this point in the tremendous reorganization that has been put under way by more or less matter-of-fact operation of representative democracy discipline has enabled an overwhelming majority of the population to accept in blind faith a plan which even those who conceived it admit is an uncertain experiment. This has been done with no more than the incidental violence attendant upon every proposal affecting directly great numbers of people.

It is as yet uncertain what new manifestations of discipline may be called for by further developments in the actual attempt to reorganize industry and business along lines of a more logical pattern than the one whose long use finally revealed glaringly its more serious flaws. But the experience of the summer months has strengthened belief in America's power to work out its problems surely as long as leadership is furnished.

The necessity of "followership" is an obvious, though often ignored, fundamental in the operation of popular government. A people capable of engaging in reconstruction with their minds instead of mob temper have better than an even chance of succeeding in anything they attempt to do. For 150 years the United States has been setting the pace for self-government. It is continuing to do so in its reconstruction program.

Misconception.

An aspect of NRA which its administrators are trying to impress on employers is the freedom it intends to give to private initiative. Inevitably, an impression of rigid control by government has been made by attempts to get business in line during the early months of the act's operation.

NRA officials are emphasizing, with a view of forestalling one type of opposition, that eventual administration of the recovery act is to be centralized in Washington. There will be no officials or offices outside the capital. NRA will not tell business what to do, but will take the position of an assistant to business in development of plans that will carry out the purpose of the legislation.

The object plainly is to convince business men that self-control rather than government control is the purpose of what has appeared in some of its phases to be an experimental system of state capitalism. This means that, eventually, industrial and business regulation will be entirely in the hands of such organizations as employers may effect to administer their codes. The function of NRA officials will be purely an advisory one, unless federal action is demanded by violations which cannot be dealt with by private organizations.

This is part of the purpose of NRA which sometimes has been ignored in the confusion of getting it under way. While it cannot be imagined that alert capitalists are oblivious of the advantage they are given in the right to organize for protection of their interests, many of [illegible] to speak [illegible] of NRA's behalf [illegible]

Coordinator Eastman is interested in [illegible] ment itself. It is his opinion that only [illegible] would jeopardize that objective for the sake of [illegible] ing temporary relief would be unwise. As part of the foremost authority on railroads, he has a more realistic acquaintance with rail earnings and their importance than the spokesmen of labor.

Their divergent views make an interesting conflict. It seems only fair that if the railroads are permitted to protect their increasing net earning power by operating without NRA every other business in a similar position has a right to claim exemption. Enterprises with an acute problem of freight rates will be particularly interested in the final settlement of the question. Action up to this point has been predicated on a belief that NRA is good medicine for all. If exceptions are to be made, there will be many candidates.

Safer in the Air.

A tragic variation in the saga of aviation's heroes was made on the eve of the Labor day weekend by General Francesco de Pinedo's fatal accident at the start of a takeoff for Baghdad from Floyd Bennett airport. Many gallant aviators have been lost in the sea and the mountains on such flights, some have met death when they tried to land. But tragedy is doubled when they fail at the outset.

The Italian airman's ship, heavy with gasoline sufficient to carry it more than 6,000 miles, was at best an awkward thing out of its natural element. Once in the air, it had better than a 50-50 chance of doing what was expected of it. On the ground and out of control it was doomed immediately. It was made to fly, not to run.

General de Pinedo was, perhaps, one of the most capable aviators in the business. There is every reason to believe that he would have added fame to the already glorious record of his countrymen had he been favored with luck at the takeoff. It was his purpose to set a new long-distance record. The tragic climax to his effort is felt more acutely because of faith in his ability to do what he set out to do had not misfortune stepped between him and success.

Comment of the Press

CHEERFUL NEWS.

Encouraging reports of recovery, both locally and nationally, continue to make news.

The American Federation of Labor ascribes an increase already of five billion dollars in the nation's purchasing power to the recovery program. This increase it is estimated, represented an upward trend in retail sales of 17 per cent.

In Toledo business during August showed nearly 12 per cent gain over the same month last year according to total bank transactions. Output of electric energy for August was reported for August was reported as 23 per cent above the power used in the same month last year.

News such as this, coming in from cities throughout the country, must cheer the President whose chief task is to see that there is economic recovery.

There are some, however, who express doubt whether these signs of real progress are due to the efforts of the national recovery administration. The point out to similarly improved conditions in Canada to strengthen their contention.

What they do not take into consideration is that our neighbor to the north can be easily influenced in their economic condition by the good or bad fortune of their closest and most friendly foreign country.

That signs of progress here can be felt in Canada or vice versa should strengthen the friendship of the two countries and add more cheer to any recovery that is shown.—Toledo Times.

ENEMIES OF SOCIETY.

The outstanding items in the crime news of the day are the acts of bandits in South St. Paul, Minn., and in Kansas City, Mo. They emphasize the urgent need of action on the part of all agencies of law and order. Police duty [illegible] a state function, but it certainly is the concern of the federal government when criminals openly defy the constituted authorities and indicate that they have [illegible] no fear of police and sheriffs.

The thugs in South St. [illegible] got away with $30,000 that had been sent by [illegible] pay rolls. That certainly interests Uncle Sam. Banks may be able to hold up banks and [illegible] messengers carrying pay rolls to local concerns. When [illegible] messengers who are [illegible] money they are defying [illegible] power of the government [illegible] thority and skill should [illegible] bringing them to justice.

The Kansas City bandits [illegible] of a prominent department st[illegible] tion of the city. They robbed [illegible] with them two young clerks to [illegible] the bullets of the police. They [illegible] get away, as were the bandits [illegible] money in South St. Paul but [illegible] undertook to interfere.

These two jobs were not the [illegible] of men who are in desperate [illegible] because of hunger. They were [illegible] hardened characters who planned [illegible] posed to do and were prepared [illegible] who stood in their way. These men [illegible] enemies of society and should be treated as [illegible] fought and convicted. No sentiment [illegible] them from getting the sentences to which they are entitled to and no clemency offer [illegible] should be permitted to interfere with justice after it has been meted to them.—Indianapolis Star.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Harelip Not Hereditary Defect.

Contrary to a popular belief, harelip is not an hereditary defect. It is congenital, of course, resulting from incomplete joining together of certain structures of the face. It is caused by some faulty development of the body before birth. But one case in a family does not mean that others will be affected in the same way.

Occasionally harelip is accompanied by a similar defect of the hard palate. When the tissues here fail to join, there is left a cleft or fissure in the middle of the roof of the mouth. This is the deformity spoken of as "cleft palate." It is not as common as harelip, but is occasionally seen in the infant who is also the victim of harelip.

Unfortunately many parents hesitate to allow such a child to be operated upon. They fail to realize that it is only by means of surgery that this unpleasant deformity can be corrected.

Neglect of this condition in infancy may lead to marked undernourishment of the child. Whenever that happens there is a decrease in the normal resistance against contagious diseases. The baby has difficulty in nursing and consequently fails to receive the proper quantities of food.

It is true that there are some children who suffer from this ailment who have no difficulty in obtaining nourishment. But no one will deny that a child who is afflicted with either harelip or cleft palate enters the world with a marked handicap. He is sure to be the victim of many hours of unnecessary anguish.

Within recent years tremendous strides have been made in the perfection of this operation. No longer is it a serious and dreaded ordeal. I am glad to say that in most instances the results of the operation are quite gratifying. Often it is scarcely possible to detect any sign or trace of the scar.

The operation should be performed as soon as possible. The time most suitable for the operation should be determined by the physician. He will take into consideration the age, weight and general health of the child. The operation must be performed in early childhood since once the bones have set and become hard it is almost impossible to correct the deformity.

Every parent should take advantage of all that modern medicine and surgery offer for the correction of such birth defects as cleft palate and harelip. Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH.

REACTION TO DISCIPLINE.

In the nature of things there cannot be found any fixed form of punishment suited to every child.

Each child requires different handling according to his individual temperament, and parents have to use the utmost insight and care in discriminating between the treatment required by the varying personalities entrusted to their charge.

Some children respond to very gentle handling. Others must be led, a few driven. Not to adjust the management to the child's peculiar needs, even at the risk of apparent favoritism may make discipline, in some of the cases at least, worse than useless.

There are children who deeply resent spanking, and turn into wild things at the least suggestion of corporal punishment. To them it is an indignity, and far from being a corrective, incites them to rebellion or sullenness.

Others prefer it to any other form of punishment, because, while unpleasant, it is soon over.

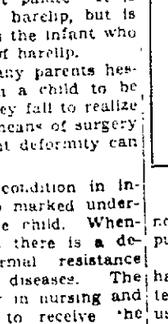
Still another type of child glories in a good thrashing from Dad, and may be heard bragging of it at school, much as if he were a battle-scarred hero.

For some children a spanking is a physical, for others an emotional corrective. One will take it stoically as his due, another will kick and scream; one will feel repentant after the punishment, another will consider the account balanced and the books closed.

There are countless variations of these types, and the number which may occur in one family is only limited by its size. But to make a punishment of any use the wise parent will adjust the dose to the patient lest what is one child's cure be another one's poison.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.



HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Sept. 6—The proposed Twentieth amendment to the constitution—that which would ban child labor in industries which may occupy a niche of its own in constitutional history.

But in the six-month congress, it took the joint resolution proposing such an amendment was passed by congress. The house voted first. On April 26 of that year by a vote of 297 to 60 it gave its approval for submission. Less than two months later—on June 2—the senate fell into line by a 61 to 28 vote.

It then went to the state for ratification.

Only six states approved the proposed amendment up until the time the new administration came into being at Washington. They were Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Montana and Wisconsin.

The legislatures of 26 states had voted disapproval. They were Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont and Virginia.

Since it requires three-fourths of the states to ratify an amendment to the constitution before it becomes operative, the twentieth amendment appeared doomed.

However, the framers of the amendment placed no time limit for ratification in their draft. The so-called "lame duck" amendment, for example, had to be ratified within seven years from the date of submission or else it would have been dead. The same holds true with the twenty-first amendment (prohibition repeal) now pending before the various states.

The absence of this time limit clause may cause the proposed child labor amendment to become a part of the Constitution.

Since the advent of the NRA and the blue eagle on the national scene, there's been a decided pick-up in ratification of this amendment. Nine state legislatures since March 4 have forwarded to the state department at Washington notification of the fact that they have approved the amendment.

Two of the states that have ratified since March 4 previously had voted against the amendment. On May 24 New Hampshire notified Washington that it had changed its mind. And on Aug. 17 North Dakota announced that it had done an about face.

Fifteen states have ratified. In addition to the six that had previously given their approval, they are Illinois, North Dakota, Nebraska, Oregon, New Jersey, Ohio, New Hampshire, Washington and Michigan.

The child labor amendment is given little credit.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

WHAT OHIO MIGHT HAVE BEEN NAMED.

If a report of a committee headed by Thomas Jefferson had been adopted without any amendment, this is how Ohio might have been named; the eastern portion—Washington; the northwestern section—Metropotamia; the middlewestern—Saratoga; the southwestern section—Pellpsia.

The committee had been named to draft a system of government for the Northwest territory in 1783 in view of expected cessions by the colonies to territories. The committee's report covered all the territory east of the Mississippi river not included in any existing state, both north and south of the Ohio river.

After a provision to eliminate slavery in the territory after 1800 and a list of fancy names had been stricken out the scheme was adopted as the ordinance of 1784, to be superseded by the ordinance of 1787. A few other of the names for the states proposed by Jefferson and his committee included Cherromesus, Assenisipia, Illinoia, Polypotamia, Michigania and Saratoga.

RETURN.

How good it is to sit again
Here in the quiet garden-close,
To watch the sunset glory wane
From gold and crimson into rose.

This well-loved hour of one pale star
And silent birds on homing wing.
How sweet its muted voices are.
How brimmed with dear remembering!

But happier than that eager flight
In which the weary song birds turn
Against the coming of the night,
In this glad mood of my return.

And fairer than the star that drifts
Upon the sunset's fading gold
Is peace, which in my bosom lifts
Its lily-petals, as of old!

There is, for example, a gentleman high up in the Chatham who has a back view of me, pajama clad, at my typewriter. For instance just now, as they gathered, I grabbed my throat and choked myself until my tongue hung out. Then I began yanking my hair and feigning to scream for help. The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

HAPPILY DIVORCED.

That charming writer, Adela Rogers St. Johns, doubts that a divorced couple can remain perfectly good friends. She suspects that lots of these "happily divorced" couples out in Hollywood are just kidding us when they declare that they have only the friendliest feelings for each other.

But, why not? If there is anything that would make you fond of a misfit mate, it would be the relief of getting rid of him—or her. You never see a man's good qualities or a woman's charms so clearly as when he—or she—is vanishing into the glamorous past!

The mere fact that you have once been married to a person shouldn't make you hate him. Just think of all the delightful men you know and with whom you enjoy talking, dining or even flirting, but who would be simply headaches or heartaches as husbands!

Or, if you are a man, think of all the girls you like to dance with and would like to kiss, but who would get on your nerves around the house.

Many a man who borrows your cigarets and has never earned a dollar in his life makes a charming friend and an ideal escort, but would be a complete flop as a husband and "provider." And many a man who always takes too many cocktails at parties is quite lovable and jolly good company, if you are not the wife who has to take him home and put him to bed.

A man may get a thrill out of being seen about with a beautiful, dashing girl; but he'd hesitate to sign up to pay her bills for life. And lots of men enjoy listening for a few hours to the wit of a brilliant and celebrated woman, who would shudder at the prospect of becoming her legal shadow and living with her temperament.

Oh, yes; the world is filled with delightful, interesting, lovable people that you or I might not care to be married to. But there is no reason to hate anybody, just because you can't stand being married to him. There are lots and lots of gorgeous paintings and beautiful statues in Florence and Rome that you wouldn't have around the house and garden.

Of course, some of this post-divorce love-bird stuff out in Hollywood may be box-office hooey, or the publicity idea. But in Hollywood, where pulchritude and glamour and stage-kisses make the head so dizzy, people should be particularly generous toward their ex-husbands and ex-wives, after a marital mistake.

It's so easy to fall in love with a gorgeous screen star—or to think you're in love—that you just can't see where you're going, until you're on your way back and throwing the bric-a-brac at each other.

A fine friendship, as Miss St. Johns opines, is the best basis for a happy marriage—but it far often-er accompanies a happy divorce. Because it's far, far easier to be friendly toward a man who is eating his toast and eggs out in Reno than toward one who is growling about them just across the dinette table.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Sept. 6, 1923.

A nationwide campaign for a $5,000,000 relief fund for the Japanese earthquake victims was started in this country and nearly one-half of the amount had already been raised.

Charles F. Ritter, 65, of Morral, died at the City hospital.

Covers were placed for 45 guests at a golf breakfast at the Marion Country club. Mrs. Howard R. Stoll was chairman. Mrs. J. R. Smith defeated Miss Lucretia Garfierson in the only match of the championship tournament scheduled for the morning.

David L. Justice, 80, died at his home on Mt. Vernon avenue.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Marion County Farm bureau, a proposal to limit automobile parking to one hour in the uptown district presented by G. H. Hulse, secretary of the Retail Merchants' bureau, was tabled until the next meeting. It was reported to the committee that some farmers refused to do their trading in Marion because of parking restrictions.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Saturday, Sept. 6, 1913.

Frank T. Campbell received his commission as Marion's new postmaster and arranged to begin his duties Monday morning. He was the first Democratic postmaster here since the late John H. Thomas, who served from 1894 to 1898.

Mrs. Matilda Welch, 78, died at her home in Caledonia.

It was announced that the outcome of plans made by Marion Lodge of Elks for construction of an opera house in connection with their new lodge home depended largely upon the success of a horse fit carnival to be held soon. The lodge expected to clear between $10,000 and $15,000, which would make consumation of the opera house project possible.

The Busy Bee club was entertained by Miss Mabel Smith at her home on Bellefontaine avenue.

Rare Species of Owl Captured on Farm Near Here

A monkey-faced owl, a rare species in this section of the country, has been captured at the B. E. VanMeter farm six miles north of Marion on the Lucas road.

The capture was made by Mrs. VanMeter in the brooder house where it is believed the owl had been killing chickens. Four were found dead a short time before the bird was caught.

The owl has a three-foot wing spread. The body is covered with smooth brown feathers touched with black and the head resembles the mammal for which it is named.

The state game laws rule that the bird must be released because of its benefit as a killer of rats and mice.

PROFESSIONAL GROUP NEW CUBAN RULERS

prising enlisted soldiers and sailors and civilians of various factions, led by the students' organization, will fight "for revolutionary vindications" upon "pure principles of national sovereignty."

Program Outlined

These "vindications" were outlined in the proclamation as economic reconstruction, trial of "delinquents" of the former government, recognition of national debts, formation of adequate courts, reorganization of national services for an early return to normalcy, and measures for creating a new Cuba, "founded on the firm basis of law and the most modern concept of democracy."

In Havana harbor was the U. S destroyer McFarland, sent hurriedly from Key West. The destroyer Sturtevant was at Santiago, where a mob killed four men reputedly members of the strong arm squad of Gerardo Machado, whose government fell on Aug. 12 and gave way to the short-lived administration of Dr. De Cespedes.

Two other warships, the cruiser Richmond and the destroyer Bainbridge, were due today.

The attitude of the old guard political parties toward the emergence of the Junta in a swift and comparatively peaceful coup had not been defined, but qualified observers predicted an early move at conciliation.

Thus, an army top sergeant, who is known as one of Cuba's best court stenographers, square-jawed, loud-voiced Fulgencio Batista, became commander of the army and five civilians became the heads of the government.

The New Leaders

They are Jose Irizarri, 40-year-old lawyer, Guillermo Portela, 48, a professor of penal law in Havana university, who is the nominal president before the diplomatic corps, Ramon Grau San Martin, 45, professor of anatomy; Porfirio Franco, 45, a banker, and Sergio Calbo, 39-year-old editor who headed the unsuccessful Gibara revolt in 1931.

Soldiers patrolled the city under orders to maintain order at all costs. One private said the presence of the warships in the harbor induced the army to "show its mettle."

Batista said.

There were no communistic tendencies in the armed forces and such will not be tolerated.

Dr. De Cespedes was hurriedly summoned from an inspection tour of districts hit by a recent hurricane. When the revolutionary commission visited him to ask his resignation, he said:

"I have faithfully fulfilled the program of the revolution of the people. Now it is time for others to assume responsibility."

Sergeant Angel Hernandez became provisional chief of staff of the navy. He said presence of the American destroyer did not mean intervention.

Although Havana was comparatively peaceful other parts of the island did not enjoy similar conditions.

Americans Seek Aid

In Cienfuegos, revolutionary demonstrators sacked hardware stores, stealing firearms. Trade was at a standstill. Army and navy detachments protected foreigners.

American residents of the Isle of Pines sent a delegation to United States Ambassador Sumner Welles. The purpose of this action was not officially revealed but it was reported the delegation asked that a destroyer be sent to the island, as they feared an uprising among the 3,000 inmates of the model prison there. The prisoners have been restive for some time.

The coup d'etat by army privates and non-commissioned officers resulted in the ousting of about 900 commissioned officers and they constituted another problem for the fledgling government. Nobody expected these officers to take the political overturn lying down.

Electric current for household uses is now available to more than 90 per cent of the residents of France.

FATHER, SON PLEAD TO LIQUOR CHARGE

Kenyons Deny Possessing Whisky; Arrest Followed Blast at Home.

A father and son, first arrested May 6 following the explosion of a large still in their home, were arraigned in municipal court this morning on charges of illegal possession of liquor.

The men, William A Kenyon of 419 Blaine avenue, and his son, Ralph, 24, had been bound over to the grand jury shortly after the explosion on charges of manufacturing distilled liquor. The charge has been withdrawn and replaced by the possession charge.

Both men pleaded not guilty this morning and are to have a preliminary hearing Sept. 14 at 3 p. m. They are out under $100 bond each. They are represented by Attorneys Hoke Donithen and Paul D Michel.

Explosion of the still disclosed, police said, one of the largest whisky plants uncovered here in a number of years. Police reported confiscating 102 gallons of alleged whisky, about 800 gallons of mash and a quantity of empty barrels and sugar sacks.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION ROCKS TOWN IN OHIO

By The Associated Press

MINERAL CITY, O., Sept. 6—One man was killed and thousands of dollars of damage was wrought in more than a score of buildings here as the result of a mysterious explosion early today which rocked the city and countryside for miles around.

The explosion was believed caused by blasting powder and dynamite stored in the two-story frame garage of the Federal Clay Products Co., in the downtown district.

Harvey E. Hicks, 54, salesman and superintendent of the Clay Products company, was the only victim reported thus far in the explosion.

The blast let go with terrific force at 6:30 a. m. It reduced the garage to a pile of twisted steel and wood and shook the entire city. Windows in virtually all downtown buildings were shattered; telephone lines snapped; patrons in the Palace hotel, nearby, were hurled from their beds. Residents as far away as Dover and New Philadelphia, 10 miles south, felt the force of the blast.

14 KILLED IN ERIE CRASH; 25 INJURED

vestigator at Elmira received similar orders.

All Dead in One Coach

All of the dead were taken from a wooden coach that sandwiched between cars of steel and three cars from the end of the flyer, telescoped like an accordion in the hands of an enraged giant. One moment before the coach had been filled with homegoers, many of them returning from vacations. The next it was a mass of splinters and twisted steel.

Every hospital in Binghamton, Johnson City and Endicott sent ambulances to the scene and many motorists converted their machines into ambulances.

M H King of Elmira, engineer of the milk train, said: "I didn't see the signal light in time to stop. It happened too quickly. We were coming around a curve."

Old Type Coach

At the end of the flyer was a steel car with another next, and the wooden coach of the type known to railroaders as "an old 1,037," the one from which the dead were taken, third. Ahead of that were other steel coaches. Persons in the diner were hurled from their seats in a shower of broken dishes. The impact of the collision split the wooden car like kindling wood. Several investigations were ordered.

William Deligo, a gardner, who witnessed the wreck gave a vivid account of the collision.

"I had gone back to my garden beside the track for my coat when I saw the passenger standing on the track with a freight train switching cars ahead. I said to myself, 'that's funny. That's first time I ever saw number eight being held up by a freight.'

"I saw the brakeman (A C Morris of Hornell) and I asked him about the stop. He muttered something and kept on going. Then I heard the milk train coming and saw its light shooting ahead down the track. The brakeman had a red lantern in his hand. He began running like mad in the direction of the milk train, waving his red lantern and I think a white one. I got off the track to watch.

Hears Crash

"I didn't hear any squealing of brakes—you know they squeal like murder when a train is stopping and I said 'he doesn't see him.' I began to run as fast as I could away from the track. The next thing there was an awful crash, like a mountain falling down. I ran back to the passenger train and part of the cars were piled up, like a heap of kindling wood. I could hear people screaming in agony, crying for help, and yelling other people's names.

"I began to pull people out of the wreckage. One little boy was screaming for his mother. I don't know how many I pulled out. It was awful."

List of Dead

The dead were:

Harry Lannon, 38, Susquehanna, Pa., employed in engineering department of Erie at Hornell, crushed chest.

Donald Burns, Susquehanna, employed in Erie coach shop, fractured neck.

——— Vacarro (woman) Susquehanna, fractured skull.

Harry Westfall, 44, Susquehanna, Erie yardmaster, fractured skull.

Eli Stanaken, 65, Susquehanna, telegrapher, shock, internal hemorrhage.

M C McCollem, Susquehanna, fractured neck.

Mrs. T M Keane, Susquehanna, fractured neck.

Mrs Mary Bouille, Susquehanna, mother of Mrs. Keane, fractured skull.

Mrs. Frank Comfort, Susquehanna, fractured skull.

Mrs. Arthur Teskey, Susquehanna, fractured neck.

R. Vavrozski, Brooklyn, fractured skull.

Mrs. Anna Muse, Passaic, N. J.

Muriel Muse, 13, her daughter.

One woman was unidentified.

Public officials and railroad executives pushed investigations into the collision.

Normal traffic conditions were restored before dawn when the splintered debris of a wooden coach was removed and derailed steel cars were hoisted back on the rails.

The three-sided investigation seeks to find out why the milk train engineer did not know of the stalled passenger train ahead, or if he did know why he didn't stop.

Bridge Scorned as Trapped Deer Reaches Safety

By The Associated Press

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Sept. 6—Watkins Glen lost its latest attraction today with the departure of its celebrated deer from the rocky ledge it had occupied for the last 10 days.

Scorning the temporary and camouflaged bridge that had been erected for its exit, the deer, under the urging of two park employes made its way cautiously down the precipitous bank into the stream that flows through the glen, crossed to the opposite side, jumped to a small ledge and then scrambled to the top of the bank on the south side of the ravine. It then trotted by one of the tourist camps near the entrance to the reservation, and headed for the nearby woods, where it was soon lost to sight.

Frank Haight, superintendent of the Watkins Glen state park, and one of his assistants, crept along the cliff about 5 a. m., today. They moved slowly and quietly, taking care not to frighten the deer. The animal retreating from the men slowly and carefully picked its footing along the ledge where it had been marooned, and finally made its escape about 6:30 o'clock.

The deer and its mate appeared upon the ledge on the north side of the ravine within a quarter of a mile of the park entrance, a week ago last Saturday. The doe, terrified at the efforts made to dislodge the pair, leaped to her death in the bed of the stream 200 feet below. The buck, however remained on the ledge until this morning. Throughout the interment of the animal park employes endeavored constantly to free it from its perilous position without endangering it.

LAMSON GAINS HOPE AS TRIAL CONTINUES

By The Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Calif., Sept 6 — An expression of hope came back to David A. Lamson's face today as his attorneys drew upon their string of witnesses for more testimony, fashioned to offset the state's circumstantial case against him in his trial on charges of murdering his attractive wife, Allene.

Downcast and silent several days while the state produced a long series of witnesses and a collection of bloody exhibits in attempting to prove he beat his wife to death with an iron pipe because of domestic discord, Lamson cheered up yesterday as relatives and friends came to the stand at opening of the defense side of the case.

Foremost among those coming to his assistance yesterday was Dr Margaret Lamson, his sister.

A graphic picture of the scene at the Lamson home is drawn in the testimony of Dr. Lamson, who said, "Dave was sitting in the patio when I came. He wasn't doing anything—just sitting and staring. I dropped to my knees before him and he began to cry. Then I cried. We cried for perhaps four or five minutes."

F. D. R. TO REVIEW NRA DEVELOPMENTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 Industrial leaders reaching millions of workers in the retail and construction trades forged through NRA's machinery today as Hugh S Johnson handed up vital blue eagle achievements and problems for President Roosevelt's examination.

Topping Johnson's list was the persistent deadlock in soft coal negotiations with its fundamental labor union issue. Next was Henry Ford's silence on the automobile code, a subject already touched on by Mr Roosevelt and his recovery council.

As for Ford, Johnson put the next move up to the Detroit manufacturer with no indication at either NRA headquarters or the White House that the government would take any immediate action unless Ford should violate his industry's code.

Gasco Drubs Presbies, 5-0, To Win City Diamond Crown

SCHWADERER BLANKS CHURCH NINE WITH FOUR SAFE BINGLES

Shoemaker Assaulted for Eight Hits by Champs; Richards Pokes Homer.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

Raking Don Shoemaker's tosses for eight solid hits and putting them together in a highly effective manner, the Gasco club rolled up a 5-0 triumph yesterday over the First Presbyterians and earned a clear title to the city diamond championship. The Gasco victory ended the eighth annual Little World series and officially closed Marion's 1933 softball campaign.

With the utilities club hammering the slants of Shoemaker at a merry clip and Dale Schwaderer throwing the horsehide past the Presbyterian batters without the slightest trace of difficulty, the game was just about as one-sided as the 5-0 score would indicate. The Presbies were helpless before the puzzling slants of Schwaderer, who, for the first time in the series, demonstrated all the form which earned for him the title of the city's ace flinger. Schwaderer sent 10 of Presbyterian batters back to the bench via the strikeout route.

Allows Four Hits

Schwaderer allowed the Presbies just four safe hits and in only one inning, the fourth, did more than one man hit safely. Schwaderer's control was perfect, not a man reaching first on a pass, something rather unusual for the Gasco hill star. Only one Presbyterian got as far as second.

To Shorty Richards, a dangerous hitter but a batter who holds no off to the start which ended up on great reputation as a slugger, goes the honor of getting the Gasco nine the city throne. Coming to bat in the first inning with the bases deserted and one out, Richards picked out the first ball thrown him by Shoemaker and rammed it into left center field for a home run. That one marker would have been plenty to have won the game.

Not Through Yet

But the Gasco wasn't through yet. After succumbing meekly enough through the rest of the first and all of the second frames, the Industrial team broke loose again in the third and rushed four more tallies across the plate. Johnny Marshall climaxed the third inning assault by pounding a three bagger into right field with the sacks clogged. Marshall then trotted home with the fifth and final run as Milt Pohler juggled Gallant's ground ball at short.

The Gasco made one or two more threats to score in late innings but the rallies were choked off each time before further damage was done.

'FARM' PITCHER WILL GO UP WITH INDIANS

Cleveland Recalls Dennis Galehouse, Right-Handed Rookie Star.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 6—After four years with the minor league farms of the Cleveland Indians, big Dennis Galehouse, a right-handed pitcher from Ohio, will be graduated to the major league next spring.

Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians, announced that the tall rookie from the farms of Doylestown, O., near Akron, will join the Cleveland team next season.

Because he has been starring with the New Orleans club, having won 17 and lost nine games this season, Galehouse will be left with the southern team to finish out this season.

He is 22, weighs 190 pounds and is six feet, one inch tall. He spent two years with Johnstown in the mid-Atlantic league and one with Ft. Wayne in the Central league before being sent to New Orleans.

HUBBELL ROUTED AS PIRATES COP FIRST CRUCIAL CONFLICT

Buc Hopes Soar as Larry French Beats Star Southpaw.

By The Associated Press

LARRY FRENCH

Loaded with first-place hopes after a series of victories over the stars of Brooklyn, Dutch Ruether's Pirates today had a dozen spare aces and found an ace pitcher parade for their next game in the National league pennant race. And with only five more extra invasion of Brooklyn, their host of watching fans, the games from the New York Giants and getting back into the thick of the battle for the flag.

In 1921 the Pirates came marching into the Polo grounds late in August with a 7½ game lead over the Giants. They dragged out a few days later after five straight defeats and the Giants went on to win the pennant and beat the Yankees in the World series.

Situation Reversed

The situation was just the same with a reverse twist, yesterday when the Giants opened their final western tour at Forbes field with a margin of 7½ games over Pittsburgh and the Bucs continued the parallel by shellacking Carl Hubbell, the Giants' great southpaw, and winning 6 to 1.

Hubbell's "stuff" was missing yesterday while the Pirates had everything they needed. Southpaw Larry French was invincible in the pinches.

A doubleheader today loomed as the turning point of the series with Steve Swetonic scheduled to make his first start in three weeks in the opener and the young left hander, Ralph Birkofer, who pitched a great game against the Giants at New York recently, due to follow on the Pittsburgh side against Big Fred Fitzsimmons and either Hal Schumacher or Bud Parmelee for the Giants. The rest of the National league was idle.

The American league program was limited to a pair of doubleheaders which saw the Washington Senators increase their lead over the second place New York Yankees to 9½ games.

Nats Grab Two

Washington took two games from the Boston Red Sox, wiwaning the opener 5 to 4, in 11 innings when Bill Werber's fumble gave them the odd run, and the second 9 to 6, by bunching their hits in the late innings to better Boston's 18-hit attack. The Yanks split a pair with the Philadelphia Athletics as home runs figured prominently. Jimmie Foxx walloped his fortieth in the opener as Roy Mahaffey pitched three-hit ball to give the A's a 6 to 1 triumph. Lou Gehrig's twenty-third started the Yanks off in the second game and they battered out a 9 to 6 triumph as Ben Chapman, Frank Crosetti and Roger Cramer also hit for the circuit.

BUCKEYES TO PLAY RESERVE IN 1934

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 6—The gridiron rivalry of Ohio State and Western Reserve universities which began in 1891 and lasted until 1914, will be renewed next year.

Karl Davis, graduate manager of athletics at Reserve, announced contracts for a game at Cleveland stadium in 1934 probably early in November will be signed late this week.

THE GIANTS' HEAVY-HITTING TRIO

Experts say the New York Giants' pitchers should get most of the credit for the club's rapid strides towards the National league flag but the stickwork of this trio has commanded the respect of hurlers around the circuit. Left to right: Mel Ott, outfielder; Bill Terry, manager and first baseman, and Lefty O'Doul, outfielder. (Associated Press photo).

EXPECTS NEW FOES IN SPEEDBOAT RACES

Gar Wood Predicts Additional Challengers for International Trophy.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Peering into the future of Harmsworth trophy competition, Gar Wood sees the day coming when not one but four or five nations will challenge for international speedboat supremacy.

The veteran Detroit pilot, who on Monday completed a successful defense of the trophy against Hubert Scott-Paine of England, said here last night he was confident no matter how many nations challenge the ingenuity of American industry will be able to meet all opposition.

"England will challenge again next year," he said, "and there are rumblings that other countries, especially Italy, are preparing boats for 1935. I hope so. Rivalry makes the effort really worthwhile."

MAR-O-DEL CLUB TO STAGE AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY ON SEPT. 24

Winner To Be Given Permanent Trophy; All Simon-Pures Eligible.

The annual Marion county amateur golf tournament will be staged at the Mar-O-Del club Sunday, Sept. 24, manager Chuck Ulrich of the club announced today. The tournament is open to any amateur golfer in Marion county. Play will be over the 36-hole route and will be played off on the one day. The entry fee for the tournament is $1. Either men or women are eligible to compete.

The winner will be presented with a permanent trophy emblematic of the county amateur championship. The tournament was won last season by Grant Hanawalt, a caddy at the Mar-O-Del. Hanawalt will not be in the field this season, having moved to Westerville, thus making him ineligible.

The deadline for entering the tournament is Sept. 20. Ulrich reported, at the same time asserting that indications pointed to the largest field in the history of the event.

The Mar-O-Del club is completing one of its best seasons, Ulrich said, pointing out that the crowd which swarmed over the course on Labor day was the largest of the current season. The only Labor day event was a flag tourney which was won by Cliff Rowley. Art Yazel finished second with Paul Kinnear third.

MILLERS VICTORS IN 'IMPORTANT' SERIES

Finish Season With Margin Over Most Heated Rival, St. Paul.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—Minneapolis' Millers have won one of their big objectives of the 1933 baseball season.

Next to winning the American Association pennant, the Millers would rather defeat St. Paul, over the season's engagements. Yesterday, St. Paul won the concluding game of the series 11 to 6, but the Millers had a 13 to 9 margin for the year's games.

Indianapolis and Columbus split a doubleheader on Indian territory when the Hoosiers took the night cap, 7 to 2, after dropping the twilight tilt 8 to 2.

Hal Trosky hit his 33rd home run of the season for Toledo at Louisville and the Hens won 5 to 1.

Gasco: Neimeyer grounded out Pohler to Vestal. Schwaderer was called out on strikes. Zahn rolled weakly to Conroy at second and was out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Presbies: Bacon dropped a single into right field. Pohler forced Bacon at second to Gallant unassisted. Neimeyer raced in to take Joe Conroy's fly in short center. Vestal hit a high bounder to Baldauf at first and was safe. It was a hit for Vestal. Shoemaker struck out. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

FIFTH INNING

Gasco: Richards grounded out, Pohler to Vestal. Mitchell was safe at first on Pohler's error at short. After Joe Conroy dropped Marshall's foul fly, Marshall drove a long fly to Castner in right. Mitchell racing to second after the catch. Conroy was charged with an error on the play. Castner made a nice running catch of Gallant's foul fly down the first base line for the third out. No runs, no hits, two errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING

Gasco: Baldauf flied out to Price in left. Young pushed a single into left. Neimeyer fouled out to Conroy and Young was thrown out to Pohler at second as he attempted to advance after the catch. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Presbies: Zahn threw Price out at first. Bacon drove a long fly to Mitchell in left. Pohler beat out an infield hit to second. Conroy forced Pohler at second, Zahn to Gallant. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SEVENTH INNING

Gasco: After getting a hand from the crowd as he went to the plate, Schwaderer dropped a Texas league single into left for his second hit of the game. Zahn singled into center, sending Schwaderer to second. Richards bunted and forced Schwaderer at third, Shoemaker to Bacon. Mitchell coaxed the first walk of the game out of Shoemaker, filling the bases, with one man out. Marshall smashed a line drive to Bacon at third who doubled Zahn, retiring the side. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Presbies: Vestal grounded out, Zahn to Baldauf. Shoemaker struck out for the third straight time. Minard batting for George Conroy watched the third strike go by to end the game and give the city championship to the Gasco.

SEWAGE PLANT UP TO VOTERS

Proposed Bond Issue Passed by Council After Protests Are Heard.

Special To The Star

BUCYRUS, Sept. 6—Confronted by a threatened law suit and other vigorous protests, city council Tuesday night passed legislation looking toward the realization of a sewage disposal plant and intercepting sewer.

A resolution declaring it necessary to issue bonds and providing for the submission of the project to the voters this fall was adopted by a vote of four to three, despite protests by Attorney A. S. Leuthold and J. H. Ulmer. Asserting that he would fight the proposed additional taxation "to the last ditch," Leuthold threatened to bring suit if the project went through.

The sewage disposal plant question was brought before council several weeks ago when E. L. Barnaby, Columbus engineer, who submitted a proposition which, if decided upon, could be financed through the new federal relief aid. Voters refused to approve a similar proposal when a $240,000 bond issue was proposed last year.

One thousand dollars was provided for immediate relief purposes and $2,500 diverted from gasoline revenue for further relief work. The $1,000 appropriation realized from the settlement with the C., D. & M. railway will be used with $2,000 furnished by the county commissioners for removing the rails from Poplar street.

CHANGING SLOPE AT STREET CROSSING

City Reducing Grade at Center and Union Intersection.

Work of correcting the abrupt slope of the intersection at West Center and Union streets was started this morning by a crew of city service department men under the direction of Tom S. Cathers, city engineer.

The brick pavement at the intersection will be relaid on a "cushion" of cement and sand, Service Director E. O. Uncapher said, and will be built up higher to correct the abrupt slope of the crossing.

Motorists using the crossing frequently complained because of the sharp angle of the slope. The work will be finished early next week, Mr. Uncapher said.

REAL ESTATE SHOWS PICK UP IN MARION

Board Reports Improvement in Business at Meeting.

A flurry of real estate activity during the last month was reported by members at a meeting of the Marion Real Estate board yesterday afternoon in Hotel Marion.

Several sales of good homes and numerous inquiries that may lead to sale of others were reported by dealers. One brick home in Marion was sold recently for $5,500 cash, it was reported.

Two persons given rent reductions during recent months voluntarily increased their rent $2.50 a month in August, members said.

Members also discussed a marked increase in the sale of real estate by a closed building and loan company which is receiving stock certificates in its own institution in payment for properties.

Plans were made to conduct a drive for associate memberships in the board. Large holders of real estate and building and loan companies with substantial realty holdings probably will be urged to join.

Yesterday's meeting was in charge of W. T. Jones, president.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Sept. 6—The Mt. Gilead schools opened Tuesday with an enrollment of 480 in the elementary and high schools but with enough more expected to register today and tomorrow to bring the total up to 500.

Acting under a resolution passed by the board of education forbidding pupils from other districts to enter until all unpaid tuition from that district had been paid, school officials were forced to deny 29 pupils from Congress, Franklin, and Harmony rural districts, entrance Tuesday but all from Congress township will be allowed to enter Wednesday as the Congress township board at a special meeting Tuesday night arranged to pay approximately $550 to Mt. Gilead and approximately $650 to Johnsville. The money was secured by an advance draw from County Auditor Roy Miller on the October tax distribution. School officials stated today that as no action had been taken by a number of other rural districts none could be admitted unless the tuition was paid as due.

CITY REVENUE TO DECREASE

Gas Tax Reduction To Slice $10,000 From Marion's Annual Income.

The city's revenue from the state gasoline tax will be reduced probably $10,000 a year or 25 per cent, Service Director E. O. Uncapher was informed this morning by W. A. Aladorf, executive secretary of the Ohio Good Roads Federation in Columbus.

The reduction will result, Aladorf wrote Mr. Uncapher in answer to a query because of recent action of the state legislature in which during the state gas tax fight four to three cents a gallon for highway and street purposes.

Director Uncapher said it is his understanding that the city's reduction has been replaced with the proceeds to be used for such purposes.

All subdivisions of the state including counties and municipalities will share in a 25 per cent reduction in gas tax revenue, Aladorf wrote.

Loss to the city for the remainder of this year will amount to about $4,000, Mr. Uncapher said. So far, $23,776 has been received of the probable $40,000 total leaving about $16,000 to be received in fourth. Of the total received to date, Mr. Uncapher said $8,000 has been diverted for poor relief purposes and the remainder to be used in the street maintenance and repair program.

Last year's receipts from the gasoline tax amounted to $41,77[illegible] Mr. Uncapher said.
